

of her just obligations. There should be no ground for the impression that a conference, if called, should have any such aim or that resistance to the fulfillment of Germany's obligations has any support. It should be evident that in the effort to attain the ends in view, regard must be had to the capacity of Germany to pay and to the fundamental condition of Germany's reparations without which the German people will be impoverished.

What Mr. Hughes meant is that the amount Germany shall pay, both now and eventually should be determined anew. The French interpretation of Mr. Hughes' language is pronounced wholly unwarranted.

"WE'RE IN," SAYS HIRAM

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 1.—America will answer the anguished cry of human suffering abroad with contributions of money and food, but the nation should stand solidly against participation in Europe's political affairs. United States Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep., Cal.) said today in an address before the visit of David Lloyd George to this country, Senator Johnson said that London had availed the "psychological moment" to make public the correspondence between Secretary of State Hughes and "My Lord Curzon" relative to America's participation in German reparations negotiations.

He charged that the former British premier took advantage of a forgotten speech of our secretary of state, made a year ago at New Haven, and gently flattered us by insinuating that through our distinguished secretary we were the very first to discover how to avert European chaos. He added:

"At last we are a part of the diplomatic game of Europe. We become entangled now in this struggle of secret purposes. The merits of the contest do not enter into the discussion. But it is well to remember we have no part of the reparations. No part of the vast sums, much too great, comes to us."

"The United States, despite the blunders of European statesmen or the mawkish appeals of any of our own, will be neither policeman nor collector abroad."

POINCARÉ STANDS PAT

BY HENRY WALKER.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
(Copyright, 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.)
PARIS, Nov. 1.—[Tribune Radio.]—Speaking at Nevers today, Premier Poincaré reiterated his campaign against France will not consent to reduce its claims against Germany one sou. It will not give up the guarantee it holds, meaning the Ruhr and Rhineland, and it will not revise the Versailles treaty.

"The treaty is sealed with the blood of our dead and we will permit no one to touch it," thundered the premier to the applause of the audience.

The speech was a direct reply to the British note asking France to agree immediately to cooperate with Great Britain in insuring that the United States name a member on a new committee of experts.

The French government insists that Article 27 of the treaty does not guarantee Germany frontiers, pointing out that Article 10 of the covenant of the league of nations is the sole act guaranteeing frontiers. The French government further points out that the separatist movement in Germany is an internal affair, with which France is not interfering.

POLICE GRAPPLE 2 RUM RIDDLES AND ARE DOWNED

Puzzled police captains tried yesterday to instruct their subordinates as to when they may search a man's home or his person without a search warrant. Then came an added enigma: Should or should not the proprietor of a café be arrested when a patron is found to be carrying hip liquor? Many captains admitted they themselves didn't know the answers.

Mayor Dever was quoted during the day as saying that the proprietor of a café should not be arrested because some one brings a flask into his place. Later the mayor denied this statement. He said the café owner should be arrested, but that the policeman must use his intelligence.

Corporation Counsel Busch suggested that policemen should be skilled in the intricacies of the law, though he presumed they were not.

Chief Collins said proprietors of places should not be arrested when a patron "brings his own."

It Depends, Mayor Says.

Mayor Dever precipitated the café controversy when he said he was misunderstood in his comment on a complaint that a hundred guests had been put out of a restaurant because one or two had the necessary ingredients for highballs. He did not think the police used intelligence in this case, he declared. Asked regarding his action should revocation of a license be recommended under these circumstances, he said that depended on the extent to control of the reparations commission if America will appoint a chairman. If this is true, it will remove much of the British distrust of the coming conference of experts to investigate Germany's capacity to pay, and it will go a long way toward restoring the accord between France and Great Britain.

Italy for United Germany.
(Copyright, 1923: By United Press.)
ROME, Nov. 1.—Italy will try to keep Germany from breaking up, because without Germany to hold her in check, France would have Europe in the hollow of her hand. That was the essence of the Italian view of the situation as explained today by persons well informed on the objectives of Italian diplomacy.

Italy is not obsessed with fear of Germany, like France, and, consequently, hopes Germany can recover speedily to a position where it can pay its reparations debt in full.

Divorces Two Husbands at Once; Now "Man Hater"
Danville, Ill., Nov. 1.—[United Press.]—Mrs. Mary E. Voke-Bishop divorced two husbands at the same time Thursday.

The victims were J. Voke of St. Louis, whom she married in 1917 at Sullivan, Ind., and Fred Bishop, whom she married at Williamsport, Ind., under the impression that Voke was dead.

She had no use for either husband, Mrs. Voke-Bishop said, claiming both had deserted her after failing to support her. She told the court she would revert to a previous name and be known as "Mrs. Mary E. Carpenter, man hater."

HANDS OF DEATH

The clock indicates the number of deaths caused by automobiles, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1.

which the hip liquor practice was carried on in the place involved.

Chief Collins said the department had no instructions to arrest the restaurant owner or shoe out the guests lacking hip liquor; he believed the case was one where the police arrived with a revocation order while the hundred patrons were eating, and didn't wait for them to finish before closing the place. He declared he had given no instructions to search citizens for booze, and before doing so would ask the law department for an opinion on the legality of the proceeding.

Order Muddles Captains.

It was pointed out that the last opinion of Corporation Counsel Busch dealt with that matter. The chief said this was plain enough.

"Listen to this," said one captain, trying to interpret the order. "This decision does not mean that the police officer is authorized to interfere with or search persons or private property without a warrant in any instance where he was not formally authorized so to do."

"Of course no one is authorized to do what he is not authorized to do," commented the captain, "and 'formally authorized' in my judgment, means authorized with a search warrant. In other words, we are not to search a home or a person without a search warrant unless we have a search warrant.

"Further along we are told that even if we are wrong in entering a private home we may use the evidence we seize. But when are we right or when are we wrong? If we seized evidence how could we be wrong?"

Chief Collins said if the order, which was in the corporation counsel's language, is found to be ambiguous it will be supplemented by one "in the language of the day."

BAVARIA TROOPS MOBILIZE ALONG THURINGIA LINE

Erhardt Piles War Supplies for Trouble Ahead.

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
NUREMBERG, Nov. 1.—The Bavarian menace toward Berlin is increasing hourly.

German troops are pouring northward to the Thuringian frontier by the thousands tonight.

Heavy train passing through Thuringia contains innumerable little groups of young men from some national organization or other. Capt. Erhardt has assumed entire command of these irregular operations, supported by Gen. von Ludendorff and other powerful military chiefs in Berlin.

Gen. Erhardt was here yesterday and left today for the Thuringian frontier.

At two advanced bases, Coburg and Bamberg, the Bavarian correspondent said extensive military concentrations. These towns and the surrounding country are jammed with thousands of men, some in military uniforms, including that of the "Sturmabteilung" (SA) or "Brown Shirts". Many are dressed in Bavarian hiking costumes, some legged, with feathers stuck in their hats.

All the hotels have been practically commandeered as headquarters.

Gen. Erhardt is constantly pushing his forces up towards the frontier, which will be the jumping off place. At least 8,000 of his men are along the frontier with three or four times that number in reserve.

Much War Material.
At Bamberg, a big receiving camp, the recruits are classified in groups. An immense amount of war material is being concentrated and carefully stored.

Capt. Erhardt is forming railroad operating companies and he is apparently planning to push north by train.

HITLER WANTS TO BE CZAR
BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
MUNICH, Nov. 1.—[Tribune Radio.]

The renewed activity of the national Socialists is interpreted here in only one way—that the spectacular leader, Adolf Hitler, is seeking the appointment to the Bavarian dictatorship, from which he can more effectively direct the national movement to bring the entire empire again under a strong central government, which, like that of the late Hohenzollerns, will devote itself to carrying out the spirit of Reichstag resolutions.

This was the tendency of all talk at Hitler's meeting last night and today. Even Gen. von Ludendorff publishes a two column article in Hitler's paper pleading for support of the nationalist movement, which only can succeed through a temporary dictatorship.

For National Dictator.
The kindred organization to the Hitler movement, the Fatherland association, met today. They telegraphed the national headquarters of the association in Berlin that they see salvation only in the appointment of a national dictator in Berlin.

When Berlin Rioted Over High Cost of Food

The speakers at Herr Hitler's meeting scientifically tore to pieces the people's part in the governing party. Herr Hitler himself devoted two hours to describing the parliamentary form of the government.

There were about 4,000 at the meeting, more than half of them young men of perhaps 20 years of age, reminding one of the same kind of support whereby Premier Mussolini triumphed over his less violent political enemies.

Stresemann Gives In.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—[United News.]—The federal government has partly capitulated to Socialist pressure in order to save the cabinet.

"Emergency orders," virtually martial law, were rescinded today in Saxony by President Ebert. The federal forces of the Reichswehr are to be withdrawn from the "Red" state.

KRONPRINZ RESTLESS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]
THE HAGUE, Nov. 1.—The Tribune confirms reports that former Crown Prince Frederick William has taken unofficial steps to ascertain the Dutch government's attitude regarding his departure from Holland.

The Netherlands foreign office has not yet communicated the matter to the allied diplomatic representatives. When the former crown prince came to Holland he gave his parole not to leave the island of Wieringen without notifying the premier, who no longer is in office since the last cabinet shakeup.

French Are Skeptical.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
PARIS, Nov. 1.—The French do not believe that Holland will permit former Crown Prince Frederick William to leave the country, since he will not be able to return if he leaves. It is considered here that the Dutch cannot keep the former Kaiser and his son in the country if they do not want to remain, but it is insisted that the Dutch cannot permit the two to dodge back and forth across the frontier.

MARK PERIL CONTINUES

BY JOHN CLAYTON.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—[Tribune Radio.]—After a week of fairly stable prices and a betterment in the feeding situation the paper mark took a new slump today, touching 250,000,000,000 to a dollar on the open market for a few minutes during the day and closing around 190,000,000,000 to a dollar.

with the official quotation at 190,000,000,000 to a dollar.

The government's new feeding program and the stabilization of bread and fat prices is knocked into a cocked hat through the failure of the Reichsbank to maintain the paper at a level. But it was a superhuman task, costing immense sums of money.

ISSUE OWN GOLD MARKS

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]
FRANKFORT, Nov. 1.—Finding Berlin deaf to their appeals for money to pay wages, the Frankfort chamber of commerce today obtained permission from the Reichsbank to issue gold marks to be used entirely in the payment of wages.

The notes will be secured by a dollar loan and treasury bonds, $50,000,000 worth of which will be paid into the treasury of the chamber. Against this security the chamber has the authority to issue 200,000,000 gold marks (roughly $50,000,000)—more than twice the worth of the securities.

BLUENOSE LOSES VICTORY BY FOUL; MUST RACE AGAIN

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 1.—A third race will be necessary to decide the possession of the International Fishermen's trophy, which Capt. Angus Walters of the Nova Scotia schooner Bluenose believed he had successfully defended in winning today's race off Halifax harbor.

The international race committee tonight awarded today's race to the Columbia on the ground that the Bluenose failed to pass a buoy to seaward in violation of a rule promulgated by the committee earlier in the week.

A third race will be rescheduled for Saturday.

The protest against today's race was lodged by Kenneth Ferguson of Gloucester, chairman of the American race committee, on behalf of the challenger Columbia. It charged that the Canadian schooner did not pass light-house bank buoy to seaward on the first leg of today's race.

On Tuesday the sailing committee issued a rule that "any buoy indicating shoal water shall be passed on the seaward side."

This action of the sailing committee was taken as a result of an incident in the first race of the series Monday in which the Bluenose fouled the Columbia when the latter had crowded her into dangerous waters in a struggle for the weather position.

There was talk of a protest growing out of this fouling, but Capt. Ben Pine of the challenger waived his right.

TAG DAY BARS TORN DOWN BY COUNCIL ACTION

All bars to promiscuous charity collections were let down yesterday when the council, notwithstanding an ordinance permitting but three tag days a year, refused to recall a permit given to the People's Community center, a Negro organization, to solicit funds for a new building in several south side wards.

When his motion to reconsider the authorization was lost by a vote of 24 to 18 Ald. G. G. Guernsey (8th), chairman of the council tag day subcommittee, declared he would welcome applications for similar permits from as many organizations as desired them.

SIX INDICTMENTS DUE IN EXPERTS' FEES QUIZ, REPORT

Indictments for at least six persons mentioned in the investigation of payments totaling approximately $2,500,000 to five real estate "experts" connected with the Lundin-Thompson city hall rule will be voted by the special grand jury within a few days, it was learned last night.

The information came after Charles R. Francis, Gov. Small's chairman of the state tax commission, and Patrick H. Moynihan, member of the governor's state commerce commission, had departed from the jury room.

Francis talked on every subject except on expert fees, it was said.

ACCUSATIONS OF HUSBAND DENIED BY MRS. STOKES

would make him 57 at that time. She was 24, she said.

Reason for Husbands Marriage.
"Did he give you any reason for that hurried, secret marriage?"

"He said he was in a very large financial deal, and if the announcement of an engagement were made he would be thought very frivolous and as not paying attention to business."

"Were you at that time and for some time thereafter in love with the defendant?" she was asked.

"I thought I was," she replied.

Mr. Stokes, she testified, had lunched with her every day at their apartment in the Anscombe. She denied she had ever been to 18 East 25th street, where colored maids testified they had served her with luncheon at times.

"I never was in the place in my life, never," she testified.

"Time Stokes Was Shot."

In reply to another question Mrs. Stokes referred to her husband's stay in the Roosevelt hospital "after he had been shot." At Mr. Stokes's request this was stricken out.

At the request of Mr. Undermyer three photographs of herself with the man Stokes she alleged to be "Tex" Richard, taken from Mrs. Stokes's album, were marked by her and passed to the jury. She identified the pictures as those of William Myers of Denver, a friend of the family in the western city.

"One of these pictures shows you with a cigarette in your lips," counsel said.

"It was a piece of paper," Mrs. Stokes said. "A magnifying glass will show that."

Q—Do you smoke? A—No.

Never saw "Tex" Richard.

Q—Do any of these pictures depict you and "Tex" Richard? A—I have never seen Tex Richard. I have never met him and have never laid eyes on him. Mr. Steyer ought to know that.

The trial was continued by a passage between Justice Mahoney and Mr. Undermyer, during which the justice threatened to declare a mistrial if Mr. Undermyer continued "to violate my rules and my admonitions."

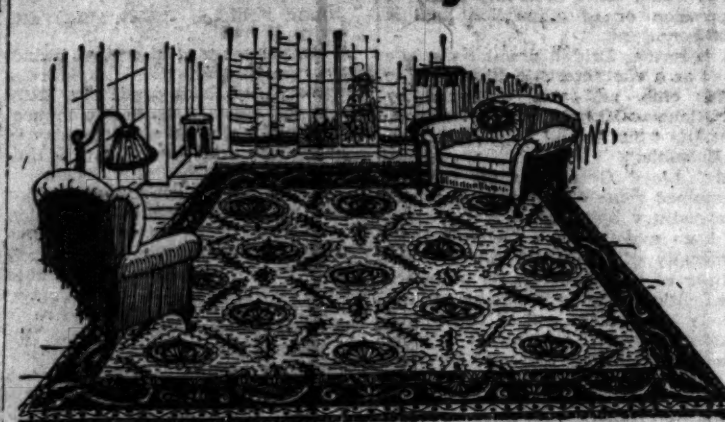

This threat put an end to Mr. Undermyer's interruptions. The altercation was precipitated by his attempt to question Mrs. Stokes about her alleged relations with W. E. D. Stokes Jr., son of the plaintiff by a former marriage and correspondent in a former trial.

Mrs. Stokes will be cross-examined tomorrow.

"Big Frank" Monroe, Once Noted Card Sharp, Dies

"Big Frank" Monroe, one of the most famous card sharps who years ago swindled wealthy passengers aboard the trans-Atlantic liners and a teammate of the Gondorf brothers, inventors of "wire tapping" and fake horse racing games, was buried last Monday in Mount Olivet cemetery, police learned yesterday. He died at his home, 8530 Aberdeen street, last Friday. Monroe quit the gang of swindlers before the police net closed in on them and both the Gondorf brothers were sent to prison.

KERMANS

"Individual" Modes—at prices lower than ever

As an indication of the lower prices that prevail at KERMANS, we picture a few of the hundreds of unusual models we are showing—some of them priced as little as $45. Among them are the newer dinner gowns—afternoon and street frocks—striking formal gowns and coats lavishly trimmed with the most-wanted furs.

Our new "Era" of lower prices means that everyone can now buy the "finer" things they want, and the quality of apparel for which KERMANS has become so noted, at prices they can afford to pay.

Unquestionably our policy of marking all our apparel at prices lower than have ever before been possible—by any concern handling the finest Modes—will create a "furore." And it is likely that others will follow our example.

Also, it is quite probable that by the time they do so, our volume of sales will again have increased to a point where we can again reduce our margin of profit—and our prices. And as soon as we can, we will.

Chicago has been good to KERMANS. The patronage of Chicago people has made our three stores the fastest growing specialty stores ever known. And we are intent upon giving you the finest garments the world ever produced, at prices less than you ever before paid. A visit to any one of our three stores will prove we are doing so.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR BUSINESS.

The enthusiasm for the future of Chicago as a port, recorded by Chicago industrial leaders after inspection of the northern section of the lakes to get waterway suggests a constructive task for the Chicago Association of Commerce and other business organizations here. There is an invaluable opportunity now open to these organizations, and one which they can develop far better than any political influence.

Wisconsin, Michigan, and Indiana, while all superficially in favor of the lake to gulf improvement, have been actually opposing it by protesting against diversion of sufficient water from Lake Michigan through the Chicago drainage canal to supply the needs of a new port waterway. Their protests have been on the grounds that Chicago is unfairly receiving lake levels for sewage disposal purposes, but the effect is the same as if they protested the diversion for navigation purposes.

The planners of these states are overlooking the value of the Chicago market to their producers and to their general prosperity. Wisconsin, for instance, sells to the amount of dairy products in this city, and through Chicago, Michigan imports the profits which Chicago buyers and distributors receive for their goods. Indiana is unopposed to our local consumption and distribution of its food products.

All these business activities of our neighboring states would be stimulated tremendously through greater development of Chicago and through improved transportation which would follow the formation of a lake to gulf waterway terminal here. That is something which Chicago business men and Chicago business organizations can impress upon these neighboring states much more effectively than any political or similar medium. If our business men will make that their business they can obtain not only consent but hearty approval and assistance from these neighbors both for the waterway improvement and for diversion of sufficient water to make it operative.

HELP FOR HENRY.

United States Senator James Coussens of Michigan says he loves every bone in Henry Ford's head and that if he seems to criticize him it is merely to save him from the humiliation of being President of the United States. Mr. Ford is like the man in Gans' "William" recent cartoon. He had the idea of going to a meat party as an underdog. His friends are rallying around him with a barrel.

INTRAMURAL

TRANSPORTATION.

When the Illinois Central has been electrified, with improved terminals, and is running suburban trains at a mile a minute, its territory on the south side will have the equivalent of a subway. It will have intramural transportation which in speed is metropolitan, and it will be the only section of the city which will have it. The city can get this from the Illinois Central for one locality, but it will not itself give adequate service to all sections by starting subways with the money it has collected to build them.

MESSING UP THE PLACE.

The Chicago wife who shot her husband because, among other offenses, he tracked up her newly polished floor might once have relied upon the defense that she was obviously abnormal. But nowadays such matters are familiar and usual. The husband in this case is charged in one report with being a loafer who hung around the house and was out all night upon unknown concerns. In the other report the wife declares he was always good to her and that she cares not to live if he dies. There is no telling what a jury will say. Many a housekeeper will say that a male who tracks up a clean floor deserves to be shot. Loafing around the house and being out of nights are both serious offenses in the marital code, and perhaps either deserves the death penalty, or a term in the hospital at least.

But, as Mrs. Belmont and other militant champions of what used to be called the weaker sex assert, this has been a man made world. That is why it is such a messy affair and many household brutalities of the male have gone unwhipped of justice. We haven't a word to say against all that, but we do venture to suggest that the long and at present rather uncertain list of offenses now subject to informal marital penalties be drawn up and placed in the criminal code. It is extremely difficult for a man to know just what his probabilities of survival are in modern matrimony or how to avoid incurring excessive penalties for acts the importance of which he doesn't grasp.

We do not forget the maxim, ignorance of the law excuses no one, but we must plead that when justice moves in such a wide and new field it seems to us only fair to let a friend husband know more definitely where he is at. After all it is a practical matter. We are told men has made a mess of things, and while it may be useful to shoot him for it, this is the age of the principle of prevention, and it is better to warn him to advance. A husband may mess up the house, but filling him with lead is rather a messy affair, too. In the name of next housekeeping his offenses should be codified.

And so far as possible and put in the statute. Shooting him on the inspiration of the moment may be justice or it may be art. But it seems to us it would get better results if classified and defined under justifiable homicide.

VOTE FOR THE LA SALLE STREET BRIDGE.

One of the special propositions which will be offered to Chicago voters at next Tuesday's election is the referendum on a bond issue of $2,500,000 to build a bridge over the Chicago river at La Salle street. It should receive unanimous approval. Not a single motorist or pedestrian who comes into the downtown business district can afford to ignore or oppose it. The proposed bridge will be the most essential step in providing a new outlet for all surface traffic from the loop northward. It cannot fail to reduce greatly the vehicular congestion on Michigan avenue and Lake Shore drive, and so to reduce congestion for both vehicles and pedestrians in the loop. By the same token it will be of value to the entire city. It is a logical and necessary step in the development of Chicago. All reasonable and intelligent Chicagoans will vote for it.

THE WET AND DRY TREATY.

Some of the drys in Washington are afraid they are not going to like the new ship liquor treaty negotiated by Great Britain and the United States and will have to fight it in the senate. They like the agreement which would permit America to deal with rum runners out at sea, but they do not like the permission which would be given British ships to bring liquor to port under seal to be used on the return trip.

Wayne B. Wheeler for the prohibitionists says he does not believe such a treaty can be negotiated under the constitutional prohibition of the United States, but the Supreme court in holding that the Volstead act applied to foreign ships in American ports suggested that a state may prohibit the operation of its laws in international commerce and in fact congress has done so in permitting the importation of liquor for foreign embassies.

The dry object to the ship liquor because, as the "dry" is bootlegged by the foreigner when they are in port and is a source of illicit supply. It probably is, and it may be virtually impossible for American authorities to stop it, although they might reduce it. A ship has many hiding places and members of the crew have many ways of communicating with friends and agents on shore. The liquor smuggled in can be smuggled whether the United States permits sealed stores in its harbors or not. The sealed liquor would be what the ship wanted for the return trip when it is some of our best as it drinks are served.

The relief granted foreign ships from a grotesque application of our prohibition law would be an act of international courtesy. The imposition of the law is an international discourtesy. There also would be the quid pro quo. The British would help prohibition enforcement by agreeing to the search for contraband beyond the three mile limit. It seems to be a sensible place of fair play all around, but some drys will not like it because it is a fair play.

A KANSAN IN NEW YORK.

We have been taking William Allen White's word for it that Kansas was dry by conviction and habit and did not need a prohibition law. His brother Kansas, Ed Howe, who founded the Atchison-Globe and later retired to Potomac Hill, is in New York telling the reporters that Kansas is wetter than New York.

Ed says it is disgraceful the way the Kansans are making it and drinking it and appearing in public sound to the outside. He says the farmers' sons are becoming drunkards and that the cellar of his own home town of Atchison are full of liquor. Howe says he is a prohibitionist and thought state prohibition was fine, but that national prohibition has just about ruined a good dry state. The farmer boys have to go to the city to sober up. It is a matter between Kansans and prohibitionists and we do not know whether White or Howe is the better informed or which one can demolish the other with facts. Prohibition is kind to the agriculturist. There are no poles. The odors do not get around the neighborhood. The federal government virtually says that hard cider is an act of providence, which is occasionally superior to an act of congress. Kansas may be enjoying its blessings.

Howe says it is a relief to get into a big city and feel the pure isolation of being one of 6,000,000 and not have to say good morning, good night or go to the devil to one of them. After the night life of Kansas it's a relief and a rest. New York may be quieter than Atchison or Emporia, but we doubt that it's drier. White seems to know where New York is lively and Howe to know where Kansas is. It's a wise prohibitionist who knows his own neighborhood.

THE ST. LAWRENCE PROJECT.

(Toronto Globe.)

The interest taken in the St. Lawrence deep waterway project by the northwestern states was shown by the recent convention in Milwaukee, but it is surprising to find indifference of it from as far south as Mississippi. Kenneth L. De Blois, a civil engineer of Utica, in that state, writes to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE calling attention to an article reproduced from the Montreal Star, which he says, "deserves some comment lest some people should think there is a surplusage of truth in it." One of his comments has reference to the cost. The Montreal Star stated that it would take "$400,000,000 to construct a modest preliminary scheme," but, as Mr. De Blois points out, the international joint commission reported that the "estimated cost for the entire improvement, both for navigation and for water power, is about $252,000,000." Moreover, the commission recommended that the cost of all navigation works be apportioned between the two countries on the basis of the benefits each will receive from the new waterway.

In contrast, in the lack of interest shown in the project at Ottawa, "I do not think the government of Canada or the people of Canada," said the Hon. J. H. King, minister of public works, a few days ago, "are in a position even to consider the project at the St. Lawrence waterway, and they will not be in a position until it has been thoroughly investigated by a board of engineers representing Canadian interests." Dr. King does not appear to be aware of the fact that the report reported by the international joint commission was prepared by a board of engineers created by the two governments.

HOPE DEFERRED.

Former Sergeant Snodgrass and Dittie Private Whipple hadn't seen each other for a couple of years until they joined the same legion post. They gathered in a corner to reminisce.

"Do you still dream your old dream about getting a government farm?" asked Snodgrass.

"Yes," replied Whipple sadly. "But now when I dream I've got some sense to know I'm asleep."

SOCRATES LOO:

"How oft on these Elysian lawns,
I met thee of my native town.
I drank the hemlock graced-up down
That quenched my thirst for aye!"

"A swift and easy end I made,
And void of lingering pain.
They did not wear my strength away
At tolling fourteen hours a day.
Thou death released the strain."

"It laid no stain on high prestige
To pass with me as I went;
And when at noon I took mine ease,
Young Critics—oh! Charmed—
Would lead our argument."

"But high renown can mark us down
For sentence on our time;
And I am not the only one
To vent with half his work undone,
And pass while in his prime."

"Yet, what a Adam, by royal name—
We men of humble mind,
Who build while yet we have the light
To reach—or miss—the crowning height
With all the tools we find!"

BLAZES BOTTLAN writes to Keith Preston to say that our program of comment of Tuesday on Teats's theatre had "the fine flavor of Chauncey Olcott." Perhaps. . . . We set it down from the memory of a play in the Abbey Theatre's repertoire, now, kidded by Boyles, we look it up, and find what we suspected—that we were right, even to spelling "soil" as "soil."

"Tis a common error to regard Chauncey Olcott as a baroque Irish in his art. . . . In a minor lifetime of major playings, we have sat under a more inept player, we have no memory for the episode. Nor by land nor by sea have we ever met an Irishman at all as he is when he is playing at being one. Nevertheless, we confess that, were he bogus, the Irish, themselves, would long since have exposed him; and we have been basely misled by earlier criticisms that a sneer for Chauncey was a slap in the face of Ireland with her back turned toward us."

PEELING TOES.

S. R. writes: In your column, "R. E. R." writes he is troubled in the skin cracking and peeling off between his toes. I had this trouble for years until I went to see a skin specialist, who, after a microscopic examination of the skin scrapings from between the toes, said the trouble was caused by bacteria. He gave me a salve which caused the imperfect skin to peel away. This I applied every night for several weeks until only perfect skin remained and all irritation disappeared.

REPLY.

Thanks for your letter. I have one from a physician who offers to bet me a dinner that "R. E. R." had the same disease you had. May be he is right and, at any rate, I am not going to bet him a dinner.

There are two diseases of the toes characterized by itching and blisters. Both are worse in hot weather. One gets well in a few days, regardless of what is used, but gets well more quickly if properly treated.

The other is the disease you have. It is a slow-growing or a near cousin thereof. It does not get well so quickly and is harder to cure. In fact, to cure, it is necessary to get rid of the thick skin and get the ring worm medicine to the parasite which has invaded it, or deep in it. Some skin specialists think most, or all, the toe blisters belong to the ring worm group, and that there is no second group.

The remedies used in this ring worm group are the Whitefield ointments and solution. The well known Whitefield ointment is composed of an ointment base to which has been added 5 per cent benzene and 5 per cent salicylic acid. The Whitefield solution is as follows: A 10 per cent solution of the following mixture: Chrysarobin, 10; chloroform, 10; alcohol, 10; acetone, 10. In some instances the use of the ointment under the foot is so thick that none of the above will dissolve it away. In that case a solution of aluminum acetate in water is used to dissolve the extra horny layer.

I doubt if the average man will make any headway trying to treat himself with these solutions.

CHILD BITES NAIL.

SUGGESTING A SUBWAY FINANCED AS A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—I hate to see the city of Chicago build a subway, because private interests can build it cheaper and better and operate it for less money and more efficiently.

Furthermore, the building and operating of a subway by politicians, would only make the proposition one to be used as a means of graft.

There would be no continuity of management, even if same were good, because every different party campaign would have to be a change of management.

Please know I do not wish to reflect on the present administration of the city, for as far as I know it is an honest one.

First of all, is a subway necessary? Secondly, could passengers be carried a fair distance at a reasonable charge, after paying the cost of operation, interest on the investment, and depreciation?

If these questions can be answered in the affirmative, the business men of Chicago, large and small, should take hold of the matter and organize a corporation to build and operate the subway.

The money to finance the company could be raised by every business house subscribing 1 per cent of its net capital and surplus. Roughly this would bring in subscriptions from $100 to possibly $2,000,000.

If the subway is necessary and practical, nearly every business house would be benefited thereby.

Those lacking ready money could, undoubtedly, borrow on their subway securities.

The board of directors would consist of the best business men in the city and they would, undoubtedly, secure the highest talent to design, build, and operate the subway.

Should the city have any funds available for this enterprise, it can very well appear as a preferred stockholder, or bondholder, and make its financial support be necessary.

The small company I am actively interested in would be glad to subscribe its share.

SAVE FUEL BY INSULATING BUILDINGS.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—There have been a number of articles recently published where men of prominence have suggested plans for the saving of fuel in house heating. I have never seen, however, a statement from any of these regarding the saving that might result from insulation of buildings.

The testing department of the Armour Institute of Technology recently has completed several extensive reports showing the cost of heating with various fuels, and the saving that would result in the consumption of fuel by insulating the walls and ceilings of buildings with different thicknesses of insulation.

This report showed that where only the ceilings under the attic were insulated with one inch of insulation there was a saving in heat leakage through the ceiling of 53 per cent. Two inches gave a saving of 89 per cent, and three inches a saving of 77 per cent. Where side walls and ceilings were insulated the total heat leakage from the building was cut down two thirds. This saving occurred when three inches of insulation was placed in the side walls and four inches in the ceiling.

The same report showed that in the case of the ordinary commercial garage with a wooden roof two inches of insulation on the roof would save 40 per cent of the total heat loss in the building. As insulation means a permanent saving year after year it should be given careful consideration in building construction.

WETS WHET AX AS PINCHOT EYES THE WHITE HOUSE

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—War to the finish on "Pinchot and prohibition" was declared today by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Plans for the campaign, which will be directed by Charles S. Wood, executive chairman of the Pennsylvania branch, call for a demonstration in Harrisburg on the evening of Dec. 7. Similar meetings will follow in all important centers in the state, and the fight will be carried through the primaries of 1924 to the presidential election.

"Every effort," the statement said, "will be made to thoroughly organize the growing revolt against domination by the Anti-Saloon league through Gov. Pinchot. Every influence of the association will be exerted to prevent the selection of Pinchot delegates to the Republican national convention."

"Pinchot and prohibition will be fought throughout the state. The two are identical in this state, and the governor would like to make them identical throughout the nation."

"Reports from all sections of Pennsylvania show that the people are ripe for revolt against domination by the Anti-Saloon league through Gov. Pinchot. Its trustees. Their opportunity comes at the primaries of April, 1924."

"Not a Pinchot delegate must be allowed to go to the Republican national convention. He never represented the majority of the Republican party and his power in it must be definitely broken at the primaries. Further discussion today of the ship-liquor situation developed the fact that differences of opinion appear to exist within administration circles as to the right of the government to make a treaty with Great Britain without modifying the Volstead act to bring liquors under seal in vessels within the three mile limit, providing the British government grant permission to search within twelve miles of the American coast British vessels suspected of being rum runners.

Both the state and treasury departments are of the opinion that all that is necessary to permit the bringing in of liquors under seal is ratification of the treaty by the senate. It is their view that this would not conflict with the Supreme court decision.

PEPPER PREDICTS ROUT OF "WETS" WITHIN DECADE

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

George Wharton Pepper, United States senator from Pennsylvania, as he gave a trenchant and humorous account of the problems which will confront the senate at the December session, told the Illinois Republican Women's club convention at a banquet last night in the ballroom of the Congress hotel that, "happily, women take their politics seriously."

Just four hours earlier, at the convention's afternoon session at the Chicago Woman's club, Medill McCormick, senior senator from Illinois, had denounced the Chicago Tribune for its failure to take seriously the will of Cook county women and to support Mary M. Bartelme, Republican judicial candidate.

And both senators received ovations.

Pepper's Wets Rout is Demanded.

Opposition to prohibition, according to Senator Pepper, cannot last the decade. He gave just three alternatives.

In ten years' time, for those who now break the Volstead law: "They will either have changed their point of view, or died, or become unpopular."

Although he declared prohibition enforcement, at the moment, to be the greatest national question, the speaker cannot see how it will be a party issue.

For, he pointed out, there are thirty Democrats and forty Republicans; but they are balanced by wet Republicans and Volstead Democrats.

The senator from Pennsylvania declined to discuss Gov. Pinchot's attitude toward prohibition and the President. But he did declare that "it is to be expected that state officers will blame their enforcement deficiencies upon the nation, and that the nation will regurgitate upon the states."

Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson urged the women to follow her late brother's advice to "take citizenship actively."

Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns, president of the Woman's Roosevelt Republican club, presided at the convention banquet.

Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Ohio, and Miss Mary M. Bartelme of Chicago made brief speeches.

Departing from his address on the Federal Child Labor Bill, Senator McCormick, at the afternoon session, made one comment on the local political situation, a comment which, he declares, he intends to repeat until election day, Nov. 6.

McCormick backs Miss Bartelme.

"This is my first opportunity to say what I am going to keep on saying through the local campaign," the Illinois senator emphasized the point.

"that I disagree unqualifiedly and absolutely with the Chicago Tribune's association and the Chicago Tribune for failure to support the candidacy of Mary M. Bartelme."

When the burst of applause was over, Senator McCormick continued.

"It was some weeks ago," he recalled, "that I determined that the women of Cook county, and not the house, should have their way. And the name of Mary Bartelme was placed on the Republican judicial ticket.

"Miss Bartelme does not deserve the election because she is a woman, nor does she want it for that reason. She deserves it because through her experience and her service she has justified the election of a woman to a judgeship."

As the women cheered for Miss Bartelme, and yelled their approval of the senator who was endorsing her, Senator McCormick shouted again above the uproar at the ladies' convention:

"I've said it for the first time, and I'll say it again and again. I disagree unqualifiedly and positively with the Chicago Tribune's association and the Chicago Tribune in its treatment of Mary Bartelme."

WALTON LOSES OPENING TILT IN OUSTER HEARING

Chicago City, Oct. 31.—(By Associated Press.)—Preliminary skirmishing marked the opening today of the impeachment trial of Gov. J. C. Walton, and when the senate court adjourned late in the afternoon the way was cleared for the trial proper.

Gov. Walton, chief counsel for the defense, opened the defense at the opening session with an application for ten days' extension of time in which to plead, saying that the governor had not been officially notified of the impeachment action until last Monday, and had been unable to prepare his defense properly. The court, however, following objections by the house board of managers, conducting the prosecution, declined to delay the hearing and ordered the defendant to appear at 1:30 p. m. and enter his plea.

Gov. Walton then entered a motion to quash the entire impeachment bill, and a lengthy statement by the governor was read, detailing the events that preceded the impeachment action.

The various charges of official misconduct were presented, in an effort to support the governor's contention that the charges against him were inspired by a Ku Klux Klan conspiracy to remove him from office.

The house board of managers replied to the motion, asking that it be stricken. This was done, with but one dissenting vote. Senator Jack Barker (Dem., Ill.) voted to sustain the motion.

Failing to throw out the entire bill, the governor's counsel then continued their attack on features of the two-part articles constituting the impeachment bill, entering a demurrer to them on grounds that they either were based on insufficient evidence or did not constitute impeachable offenses.

The court set the hearing on the demurrer for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and adjourned until that time.

Smoked Out Pipe.

Throughout the hearing today Gov. Walton sat with his counsel calmly smoking a pipe. He took no part in the proceedings and was a distinguished exception.

On the way to the hearing Walton displayed a letter from a theatrical agency in Boston offering him $2,000 weekly for a lecture tour through New England for six weeks or longer.

Gov. Walton today issued a signed statement denying the charge made Tuesday at Atlanta by W. H. Evans, Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, that the executive was a "member at large" of the secret organization.

The statement declared that William Joseph Simmons, emperor of the Klan, had offered him a life membership in the order, "in just recognition of your constant loyalty," in a letter dated Sept. 10, 1922.

Emperor Simmons was told that Gov. Walton would not accept a membership in the Klan "so long as your organization permits its members to parade under mask, refuse to disclose their identity, engage in unlawful practices, or teach racial and religious hatred," the statement said.

U. S. FUNDS SPED THROUGH HANDS OF $3,000 CLERK

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Looming methods in the general accounting office of the government, enabling a $3,000 a year employee to approve millions of dollars in claims, even over the protest of department heads, were brought to light today before the senate committee investigating the veterans' bureau.

The committee listened with amazement to the testimony of W. E. Gordon of the military division in the general accounting office, who told how he paid a claim of $32,000 to Matthew O'Brien of San Francisco, for architect fees on the Livermore [Cal.] hospital, despite the recommendation of Gen. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, that it be rejected.

Gordon stated that O'Brien's contract contained a clause providing that in case of dispute over the payment of the fee the President should act as arbitrator. A letter signed by Bacon Stamp, secretary to the President, was introduced showing that the case had been referred to the White House and that President Coolidge had declined to act.

This refusal left the accounting office with no alternative but to pay the bill. This Gordon proceeded to do without consulting Gen. Hines or any of his superiors.

Swing Laporte of Pittsburgh, the "boy wonder," who became assistant secretary of the treasury at the age of 26 in the closing days of the Wilson administration, testified as to his haste in rushing through the agreement under which the government acquired the hospital site at Excelsior Springs, Mo., from E. L. (Liv) Morse, well known Missouri politician. He closed the deal with Morse on March 3, 1921, and went out of office the next day. His only object in rushing the deal, he said, was to aid the suffering veterans, who needed more hospitals.

Previous witnesses testified that when the contract was drawn it provided a maximum purchase price of $77,000, but after it was turned over to Laporte these figures were erased and $30,000 substituted. Laporte said he remembered nothing of this; that the only figure he had ever discussed was $30,000.

PRINCE WAS OUT WHEN PRINCESS RAIDED THE FLAT

New York, Nov. 1.—(Special.)—

Denial of the charges made by Princess Klause von der Lippe-Lippe, who accuses her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Schroeder, a wealthy widow, of alienating the affections of her husband, Prince Nicholas von der Lippe-Lippe, was made today by the prince and Mrs. Schroeder.

"There isn't a word of it true," said Mrs. Schroeder in the presence of her lawyers, Plinsky & Gluck, and the prince and a man named Charles Lee Phillips, who said he formerly had been married to the princess.

"I was ill the night my sister accompanied by two men broke into my apartment," Mrs. Schroeder continued.

"They didn't find the prince there. Instead, they found only the housekeeper, a Mrs. McDonald. The prince's clothes had been left there to my sister's knowledge because he had stored them there while he was looking for an apartment."

It was clothes taken from a box that my sister claimed she found strewn on the floor.

"The prince had been there to call early in the evening, when he found me ill, and telephoned to my physician, who lives in the building. My nurse was there at the time. The prince left shortly after the doctor came and my nurse was with me until about a half hour before my sister and her two men companions broke a pane of the door and forced their way in."

"That is correct," said Prince von der Lippe-Lippe. "I saw my wife the night after she made this 'visit' and she told me she had no right to make it."

"I will say now that before this visit was made I had told my wife I intended to institute annulment proceedings to dissolve our marriage on the ground of fraud in the answers she made on our application for a marriage license at Rye and in statements she made to me before this, when she told me she was a widow and had never had a child."

LAWYER DRAWS CONTEMPT TERM IN GOLDMAN CASE

A split in the face of justice, was the way Circuit Judge Kiekham Scanlan yesterday characterized a petition filed by Attorney Leslie A. Gilmore in behalf of Mrs. Ida Goldman, wife of Jacob Goldman, indicted professional receiver, to recover property of Mrs. Goldman sold by the court in auction. Gilmore, after receiving a severe reprimand by the court, was adjudged guilty of contempt, sentenced to serve seven days in jail, and fined $100.

The petition, demanding also a change of venue, asserted that Judge Scanlan was "biased and unfit" to hear the petition. The judge declared it scandalous and contemptuous—a document more vicious than any ever filed in the courts of Cook county.

Gilmore once served time in a Missouri prison for embezzling money from a client. Later he was admitted to practice in Illinois. He was afterward indicted and acquitted on a charge of wire tapping conspiracy, and disbanded. Later he was readmitted by the Illinois Supreme court.

"One Good Sole Deserves Another"

"In having your shoes resoled, keep these two things in mind," says the wise repairman.

"First, the resoles should be the same weight and thickness as the original sole. A heavier sole is a strain on the upper, and weakens the shoe.

"Second, most thick soles are not naturally thick. They are acid swelled to make them look thick. This acid rots the fiber and destroys the wear."

Longer Wear and Less Weight

It is poor economy to buy good, solid, all leather shoes, only to weaken them when you have them resoled by accepting some untraded, unguaranteed, or imitation leather.

Every K. L. Prime Oak Leather Sole is trade-marked so that you can know you are getting a genuine, long-wearing, all-leather, acid-free sole from the best part of the hide, tanned by the time-tested vat process.

WELCOME TO COUNTRY, VETERAN EDITOR TELLS BEGINNERS

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
Country newspaper work offers the best opportunity in the world for worth and growth. There are editors and publishers in the field who receive from $1,000 to $15,000 a year. If I were a beginner, knowing what I know now, I would try my best to get into the country field. D. W. GRANDON, Editor, Sterling, Ill., Gazette.

One of the main, pink checked editors of Illinois journalism emphasized the contrast of fifty years in a very ingenious way last evening before the Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern University. Thus: Fifty years ago, when most Illinois country weeklies were using the Washington hand press, it would have taken the lifetime of two men to print one Sunday edition of some of the big city papers of today.

"And," the speaker, dryly added, "they worked much harder than most men work today."

Today two men employed on such a paper as the Sterling, Ill., Gazette, which is the one of the last remaining ones and editors, can turn out 10,000 copies an hour of a sixteen page newspaper—printed and folded.

In the old days it would have taken so men eighty-three days to do that job.

In the old days men like D. W. Grandon, who laid the fruits of fifty years of newspaper experience before the Medillians, got into journalism by learning to set type. He was 14 years old then and had to stand on a box to reach the type case.

Education Big Help Today.

The hale editor neatly epitomized the difference in the conditions which the newcomer in newspaperdom faces now and faced in his youth.

"You," he said, "have the education and equipment your grandfathers had the opportunity. You, in making your start in country or small town journalism, have got to prove to an editor that your services can establish a new point of contact between his newspaper and the public. Having done that, you will soon make a place for yourself where you can borrow the $3,000, the $5,000, or more to buy a share in the paper. But in the old days of small, cheap equipment Warren Harding could borrow from his father or from some good natured fellow townman the two or three hundred dollars required to start the building up of a property that brought nearly half a million before he died."

So, while your dad had newspapers thrown at them, without the money to buy, you have been given such an education, in such a school of journalism as we did not dream of in my youth, that you have the ability to demonstrate your fitness to buy into higher priced, better newspapers and become connected with business interests that will return many fold what the pioneers secured."

"Keep Out of Slow Towns."

He was explicit about the kind of small towns which the city trained beginner in any line of work—but more especially journalism—should choose.

"Keep out," he warned, "of a slow and slovenly looking community. See it does not respond readily to progressive newspaper service."

"Select a town where the store fronts and window trims are attractive, where the homes are painted and the lawns show care. Such a town is ready for the best newspaper you can possibly give it."

GAIL ED. HOLLYWOOD STORIES

BY A. T. GALLICO.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—This is not a sketch of a vaudeville pair but a picturization of how the fat man and the thin man should transform if they wish to improve their figures. No matter what the current styles may be, there are two classes of men who must, more than any one else, first take into consideration their physical characteristics. These two classes are the thin men and the fat men.

Since there are many types of thin men and as many varieties of stout, it is impossible to generalize to any great extent. But there are some rules which may be applied to the two types of figures that, of course, oppose treatments. That is, what is good for one is bad for the other and vice versa. Hence, if we say that the thin man, in order to give himself a well rounded figure, should seek in his clothes as many round corners and soft curves as possible, it follows that the stout man should use all the angular corners and sharp effects possible in order to make for a smaller effect.

The reason for this is optical. It may be illustrated by taking a square and a circle of the same area. The circle seems to be larger than the square. In the case of the circle and rounded corners the eye is allowed to travel without interruption, while it is stopped by angles, in which case the effect of breaking up the mass is obtained.

A practical application of this diagrammatic theory to men's clothing

Mush in Cheese Sauce.

In making a mold of mush for frying or to use in a sauce it is well to note how to get it out of the pan or mold in perfect shape. A knife may be used to release it if it sticks to the sides of the pan, as it usually does not, but suction holds it tight to the bottom often. All that is necessary is to shake the pan or to hit it lightly on the bottom to loosen the mush so that it will come out unbroken.

It is astonishing how much a half cup of cornmeal cooked in two cups of water seems to make when it is molded, cooled, and then cut up into blocks. There may be too much of it to use with one pint of sauce.

Combined with a cheese sauce in layers and then baked until it puffs a bit, this makes an excellent luncheon dish and one quite like the extremely elegant French gnocchi. It will be a little more like the latter if a little nutmeg is used in the seasoning.

RAILROADS DENY LOWER RATES ON EXPORT WHEAT

Tariff Duty Proposed by Anderson.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—There were two important developments today affecting the administration's efforts to relieve the agricultural situation, particularly the wheat farmers.

The first was an announcement by a committee of railway executives that they would not support a proposed reduction in freight rates on wheat for export.

The second was the formal filing of a petition with the tariff commission by Representative Anderson (Ill.), who is president of the committee of the United States.

The committee of the railway executives, headed by Samuel R. Peck, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, on whom the administration has placed much reliance, announced that they would not support a proposed reduction in freight rates on wheat for export.

The petition filed by Representative Anderson, who is president of the committee of the United States, requested that the tariff commission reduce the duty on wheat for export.

The tariff on wheat, Representative Anderson attached tabulations to show that the cost of production in the United States had been so much greater than in Canada as to justify a recommendation to the President for issuance of an executive order increasing the duty on wheat to equalize costs.

"This tabulation shows," says Mr. Anderson, in a letter addressed to Thomas O. Marvin, chairman of the tariff commission, "an average yield for the three prairie provinces of Canada of 29.5 bushels per acre, as against an average yield of 9.5 bushels per acre for the four spring wheat states of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Montana. Assuming an average cost of $15 per acre in both this country and Canada, the cost per bushel in the three prairie provinces would be 73 cents and in the four spring wheat states $1.67.

"Taking figures for all Canada and all spring wheat in the United States, and again assuming the cost of production at $15 per acre, the cost per bushel on the Canadian average yield would be 73 cents and in the United States $1.90."

Mr. Anderson also attaches tables tending to show a freight rate advantage to the Canadian producer averaging from 2 1/4 to 3 cents per bushel, depending upon distance from the primary market. The fact that the spring wheat produced in Canada this year is on the average a better quality than the spring wheat produced in the United States, Mr. Anderson says, results in an additional advantage of 3 or 4 cents per bushel.

"The conditions have been aggravated this year by an abnormality low yield in the sections immediately west of the Mississippi river," says Mr. Anderson.

Alemite Lubricating Spring Covers
Make Your Car Ride Easier and Save Your Tires

When you get your car new the springs are well lubricated. But as you run the car, you gradually force out the lubricant between the leaves of the springs. Dust and water get in. Springs become dry and rusty. They lose their flexibility. They begin to squeak. The tires have to stand most of the road shocks. By the time you get your second set of tires your springs have become very stiff. That's why your second set of tires never last as long as the first.

You can protect your springs from dirt and water and keep them perfectly lubricated all the time with ALEMITE LUBRICATING SPRING COVERS. These are flexible, rust-proof steel covers that encase your springs in a bed of lubricant, keeping out all dust, grit and water. Twice a year you pack with lubricant by means of the ALEMITE COMPRESSOR AND HOSE. Your springs constantly bathed in clean lubricant function correctly at all times. There is no squeaking—can be none. Your car at all times gets the benefit of full spring action, which means easy riding and long life for your tires. Ask your dealer about ALEMITE Lubricating Spring Covers for your car.

A recent survey among repair shops brought to light a rather startling fact. A check-up of itemized repair bills showed that (barring accidents) over 80% of all repairs could be traced to one source—lack of proper lubrication.

After 6,000 miles, bills of $100 to $300, because of this neglect, were common.

In the used car market—authorities told us that a $1,500 car of standard make, which had been methodically lubricated by the owner, generally sold for at least $150 more than one which had been neglected in this important matter.

Why Neglected?
Motors—they told us, usually show good care. It is the hard-wearing chassis bearings that suffer. For they used to be difficult to reach, and too often the lubricant never penetrated to the bearing surfaces.

But now you can lubricate your chassis as easily as your motor. For most good cars now come equipped with the Alemite High Pressure Lubricating System. (Nearly 4,000,000 cars are equipped.) With this system every bearing on your chassis has a hollow fitting with the crosspin as shown below. You simply snap on the Alemite bayonet coupling. A quarter turn locks it. An easy turn of the compressor handle forces in the lubricant—under 500 pounds pressure. The flexible metal hose makes it easy to reach all points. Once you turn the compressor handle you know the lubricant goes clear through to the bearing surface. Rust, grit, dirt and old grease are forced out. High pressure insures this. Thus the parts you used to neglect now actually invite proper care. For the job is made so easy.

Every 500 Miles
If Alemite is on your car—be sure to use it—at least every 500 miles. That's why the manufacturer put it on—to save you repairs! If you don't care to do it yourself—any dealer can do it for you quickly—at nominal cost. That's the great advantage of this system—the fittings are as standard as the valves on your tires. If one is missing, any dealer can replace it for you.

There are cheaper systems than Alemite. But manufacturers do not economize here. It means too much. And what they consider good business—should be a safe, sure guide for you.

If Alemite is not on your car, your dealer will install it complete—$5 to $20, according to make and model of your car. (Ford, $3.99.)

If you install Alemite on your car you will find that it will save its cost five times over in a season.

Linoleum Floors Save Money In Floor Upkeep

BUSINESS floors are the world's champion absorbers of street dust. Street feet knock and scuff, chud and shuffle over them. Seams open; tiny, invisible dirt pockets form. Charwomen scrub. Overhead mounts.

Your dirt-containing floors cost you money. Have you ever counted the cost of your floors? A large telephone company in Chicago has kept a careful record of the cost of maintaining floors. In their big building, linoleum floors show definite economies. The entire cleaning and waxing cost is less than a cent and a quarter per square foot per month.

Do you think your customers are not, at least subconsciously, aware of the state of your floors?

A springy, easy-tread floor
Certainly they like the springy, resilient quality of linoleum. Armstrong's Linoleum is as resilient as cork. It is powdered cork, mixed with linseed oil. And it is burlap-backed to make it tougher yet.

A linoleum floor is a noise reducer. It is therefore an overhead reducer from another angle. Every noise that breaks a business thought in your establishment costs you money. And every employee who fights off noise with his mind while working for you is under-producing.

Business men like Armstrong's Linoleum for its cleanliness. When properly laid, it has no unsightly, open seams. It is smooth and even-surfaced; and, if waxed and polished, a daily brushing with a slightly waxed dust-mop serves to keep it spick-and-span.

There is no floor more dignified than waxed linoleum. Its looks actually improve with age. Years mellow it.

Floors for all business uses

In selecting a floor of Armstrong's Linoleum for store, office, restaurant, or any public or semi-public building, you can choose suitable designs in plain colors, Jaspés (two-toned effects), tile inlaid, marble inlaid, and parquetry inlaid. Linoleum floors with borders, "built to fit the room," offer decorative floors for offices, stores, and smart shops. They may be had in designs and colors in keeping with the finest fixtures and appointments.

Your architect, contractor, or any good linoleum merchant can give you information on the economy of linoleum and its low upkeep cost. Or write for a free copy of our 48-page book, "Business Floors," which shows colorplates of the new designs and gives complete information regarding laying linoleum floors and their care.

Business Is As Good As WE Make It!

1. Wheat is NOT king.
2. High wages are better than cheap labor.
3. Europe can't wreck our prosperity.
4. Only our own politicians can hurt us.

Above are the titles of four advertisements through which The Chicago Tribune wishes to convey to the business world its interpretation of business conditions. It is a common human trait for men to imagine that others are more fortunate than they. Today we have the extraordinary phenomenon of vast numbers of men with the opposite sort of illusion. Each one admits that his own business is good, but fears that he is about to be injured by the contagious influence of other men's misfortunes. To hold some of these bugbears to the light is the purpose of this series of advertisements, which will be mailed free to any selling organization if requested on business stationery.

Corn Belt Flourishes While Stock Market Slumps

For several months business in New York has been running behind the corresponding period of last year and resultant gloom and pessimism have had some depressing influence through the remainder of the country. Nevertheless the country as a whole is prosperous, and The Chicago Territory in particular is flourishing.

Here are check transactions as reported by the Federal Reserve System for the New York District and for the remainder of the country for the first nine months of each year:

| Check Transactions | | |
|--------------------|-------------|-----------------|
| | New York | Other Districts |
| 1919 | 171,903,871 | 149,271,919 |
| 1920 | 175,790,589 | 180,032,708 |
| 1921 | 181,550,645 | 147,106,288 |
| 1922 | 179,662,644 | 159,555,248 |
| 1923 | 177,223,565 | 169,552,122 |

Check transactions, or "purchases," as they are termed by Babson, have been running 13% ahead of 1922 in the Chicago Federal Reserve District.

Stock Market vs. Insurance

Why is the stock market in the dumps through this period of high wages and universal unemployment? Possibly the public is investing its surplus through other channels. More bonds are being sold over the counter. Savings deposits are up. Note how these figures on employment check with those that follow on life insurance sales:

| 1,628 Fictitious Report: | |
|------------------------------|---------------|
| Employees in September, 1923 | 2,830,000 |
| Employees in September, 1922 | 1,667,000 |
| 25% increase in wage earners | 263,000 |
| Life Insurance Written | |
| September, 1923 | $544,629,000 |
| September, 1922 | $52,831,000 |
| 25% gain | $ 91,938,000 |

COMFORTS, conveniences, pleasures beyond the reach of wealth in past generations have become commonplaces with the average American. The death rate goes down. Standards of living rise.

Never has man been so free to seek and win happiness as in this nation today. We enjoy the harvest planted by pioneers who conquered a new continent. We command the elements trained to service by science. We repose in a security from internal tyranny or external aggression seldom experienced by any people.

Back through the centuries our ancestors toiled desperately for food, clothing, shelter and fuel. Only a small minority dared hope for much more in this life. Even today the greater part of the world's population is hopelessly gripped by a struggle for mere necessities of existence.

THE ryots of India need little clothing or shelter. They slave mainly for food. Yet seventy millions of them have died of starvation since Queen Victoria ascended the throne. Why can the average American with a fraction of the physical effort be assured not only comforts but luxuries?

Within the past few years millions have died in China and Russia because they couldn't get enough to eat, but here in the United States, with 6% of the world's population, we raise 24% of its wheat, 41% of its hogs, and 75% of its corn. Dr. J. Paul Goode has figured that one huge modern locomotive and two men will do the transportation work of one million coolies.

How stupid is it, then, for labor leaders to attempt restriction of output, or for capitalists to yearn for cheap labor. Greater volume of production should be the object of both.

Sober, scientific study of the world's history, natural resources, commercial development leads inevitably to the conclusion that the future holds for the United States

The Chicago Territory is going ahead—in diversified manufacturing, in mining, in stock farming, in fruit culture, in corn growing, in commerce. The Chicago Tribune, major selling force of this rich market, is also going ahead. We shall be glad to take along with us reputable merchants, manufacturers and financiers who believe that "business is as good as we make it."

far greater prosperity than the average man can even grasp.

In these pages we have shown how the present dwarfs the past. Even so shall the future excel the present.

On this conviction The Chicago Tribune is basing its own policies. The present success of The Tribune is evidenced by the fact that nightly between sunset and sunrise it prints and distributes an average of 240 tons of newsprint. This is a job of presswork and circulation not approached by any other publication on earth. But The Chicago Tribune is not resting on its oars. It is a paper of expanding markets, of faith in the American future.

Within the past few months The Chicago Tribune has increased its holdings of pulpwood forests from 500 square miles to 2,500 square miles. It has purchased many new presses to handle increased circulation and advertising. It is erecting The Tribune Tower, which will probably be the most beautiful office building in the world. Within a few months it will launch a new national weekly magazine. It is constructing a mill to make paper for that magazine.

NEWS OF DAY SHOWS BUSINESS OUTLOOK CHEERFUL

BY O. A. MATHER

Business again put its best foot forward yesterday. News and view, with the usual minor exceptions, was generally cheerful and constructive. Let it not be hinted that the American farmer is nearly "buried" when the two big Chicago mail order houses, which depend for a large share of their business on the agricultural community, can sell nearly $23,000,000 of goods in a month. October sales of Montgomery Ward & Co. at $11,165,652 were the highest of any month in the company's history, and marked a gain of 47.4 per cent over October last year, sales for the ten months ended with October also set a new record at $106,491,411, an increase of 18.1 per cent over the corresponding period last year and exceeding by more than $14,000,000 the previous high mark set in the boom year of 1920.

Best month this year. Sears, Roebuck & Co. also made an excellent showing. October sales were $12,776,775, an increase of 13.5 per cent over October, 1921. Sales for the ten months totaled $114,327,540, a gain of 15.4 per cent over the corresponding period of 1921.

In the case of both companies, October sales were the largest for any month this year. Furthermore, the big holiday and winter trade is still ahead, and it is not too far off that both companies will have an excellent year both in volume of business and profits. In the same line, a statement by Walter Cramer, president of the Eastern City stock bank, said that the company's business for the month of October was the best since the company's opening in 1910, and that there is no reason to suppose that the agricultural industry in the central west has collapsed.

Chester Industrial News. Industry also had its tidings of cheerfulness. President R. P. Lamm of the American Steel Foundries company said the plants are running about at capacity, but that they are naturally being slowed down by the end of the year. The company's net earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1922, were $1,115,000, a gain of 27.4 per cent over the corresponding period of 1921, and a gain of 10.7 per cent over the corresponding period of 1920.

President Samuel Vanauken of the American Locomotive works said October shipments at $10,000,000 marked the largest volume of business for the month since November last year, and that the company's business for the year will exceed $100,000,000. Plants are running at capacity and with increasing orders are expected to maintain this rate at least until next March.

Interest Rates Indicated. Finally, some general quickening in trade is indicated in the weekly report of the Federal Reserve system. The strong country, however, continues to pressure fairly easy money. The consolidated statement of the twelve Federal Reserve banks shows total deposits of $10,400,000,000, an increase of $1,100,000,000 over the corresponding period of 1921, and a gain of 10.7 per cent over the corresponding period of 1920.

Deposits expanded $25,000,000, with a number bank reserves increasing $10,000,000. The ratio of reserves to liabilities was 76.3, compared with 78.6 per cent in the preceding week.
